Screw Worms Found County Agent Warns

Randall County agent John Brazzil said Tuesday that a positive identification of screwworm case has been made in the canyons of Armstrong County.

Brazzil said he got the word this week from Dr. Lennerts, district veterinarian with the Texas Animal Health Commission and Disease Control Division. He said this is the first positive case in this vicinity in 1963.

Brazzil said that livestock producers, especially in the eastern sections of Randall County, are urged to be alert for screwworm in their herds. A control program will immediately go into effect when positive cases are found, he said. These will include on the ground control measures and air drops of sterile male screwworm flies.

This will not be done unless producers submit a specimen for identification, Brazzil said.

He urges that ranchers and farmers suspecting a case of screwworm infection, save a sample, preferably 10 larvae, and report it immediately to the county agent's office in the Randall County Courthouse. Brazzil has the vials and containers to handle the specimens for laboratory analysis. Brazzil suggests that the larvae be put in plain water or alchol for preservation.

Dr. W.C. Burnett, of the Texas Animal Health Commission, will make the surveys for control measures if needed, Brazzil said.

The screwworm eradication program is a part of the Southwestern Screwworm Eradication Program. Randall County livestock producers have put more than two thousand dollars into this program, Brazzil said. Texas livestock producers have contributed more than 3 million dollars to back the screwworm eradication effort, he said.

City Wants Weeds Cut

The rains have come and the weeds are getting high.

As a result, City Manager Bill York, will send letters to property owners requesting they mow their property and keep it free from debris.

York warns that high weeds and stacked debris along fences, alley-ways and on vacant lots, are health hazards from breeding rats and mosquitoes and will offer a serious fire hazard next fall when cold weather turns the high plants to dry fuel.

A warning letter will be sent to all property owners whose property needs mowing or cleaning York said. City ordinances also provide that a ten dollar fine may be levied against the property owner for each day his property remains unmowed or uncleared of debris ten days after he has received written notice from the city, York said.

The city will help make arrangements for property owners to have their property mowed, York said. He added that the city has a list of the names of private mowers, which will be supplied upon request.

If the property under complaint is not mowed within the ten days notice, then the city will have to have it mowed and the charges assessed against the property if not paid by the owner, York added.

Dollar Day Postponed

Dollar Day has been postponed until Friday and Saturday July 12-13 because of the July 4 Holiday, according to Roland Black, manager of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Black said a free show will be featured as was the case for the June Dollar Day.

Thursday, July 4, has been designated as a town-wide holiday. Most places will be closed that day.

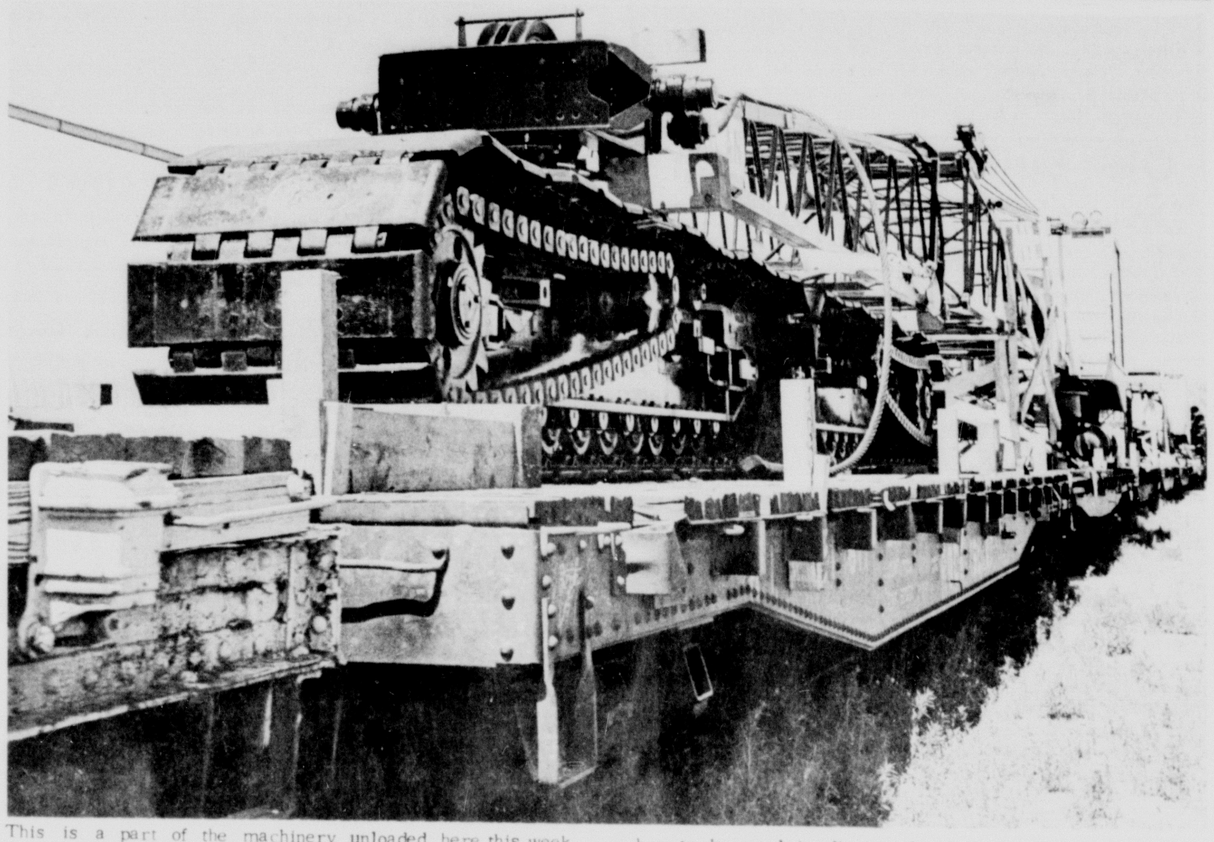
Discussed At Chamber Meeting

Scenic Road Revived



This is a part of the machinery unloaded here this week for use in construction of the Canadian River aquaduct east of Canyon. The equipment came in on six flat cars. One of the pieces included in the equipment is a huge back hoe to be used in digging the ditch for the pipe line. Some of the personnel employed on the aquaduct will live in Canyon until the mammoth project is completed.

Jarvis Picked For Return Engagement

Talk of a scenic drive through Palo Duro State Park has been revived.

The scenic drive was discussed Monday night at a meeting of Canyon Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

One proposal calls for a road through Palo Duro Canyon to join Highway 284, the highway between Claude and Silverton.

A second proposal calls for a highway branching off at Clarendon or Claude and running through the Canyons. Yet another proposal in the past called for a highway around the rim of the Canyon.

Chamber Manager Roland Black said the proposal for a paved state road through the park was discussed with Marshall Formby while he was a member of the state highway commission.

Formby told the group who talked with him that such a road could not be undertaken until bonds on the park were retired as the state would not build a public road through such a facility as long as a charge is made for admission.

It is necessary to retire bonds against the park before the admission charge could be dropped, Pete Cowart, Chamber board member and concessionaire at the park said bonds would be retired within the next two years.

Cowart said another strike against a scenic drive through the canyon is the fact that it probably would cost five times as much as similar construction on fairly level ground.

Cowart said the park board has consistently opposed two entrances to state parks because of the control factor.

Black said the highway department flatly refused to build a road around the rim of the Canyon.

The chamber manager said he will talk with Chili Smith, highway department district engineer, about the proposed road some time in the near future.

Black announced that Dr. Charles Jarvis, San Marcos, will be principal speaker for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held next January.

The chamber manager gave a report on the chamber's activity in connection with the dairy princess festival held last Saturday night.

He also announced that 90 youngsters from the YWCA in Amarillo will come here by train July 16. He said local businessmen will be asked to furnish transportation for the girls from the depot to the museum where they will visit.

Palo Duro Visited By H. Maier

Palo Duro Canyon was visited Tuesday by one of the men who helped make the canyon park dream come true back in the 1930 s.

Herbert Maier, associate regional director of the National Park Service with offices at Santa Fe and San Francisco, visited the canyon after a 30 year absence following the completion of the park.

Maier said he first saw the canyon on horse back in late 1933 when he and Dave Colp and representatives from the National Park Service surveyed the canyon as a possible camp area for the then forming Civilian Conservation Corps. J. Everts Haley was also with the group, Maier said.

Maier said the main obstacle to the development of the park was its land acquisition. He said the land was in private ownership and it was a very complicated proceedure to make the land transfers. "I thought they never would make the land deals, but they did," he said.

Jury Wheel Almost Sure Thing Here

Randall County commissioners court all but settled for the jury wheel method of picking prospective jurors Monday.

The commissioners voted to advertise for bids for an attachment for the county tax office addressing machine which will facilitate printing of names for the jury wheel.

Formal vote on the jury wheel method will not come until next month.

The court also authorized Commissioner Bill Butler to advertise for bids for two tractors to pull mowing machines in his precinct.

Commissioners met last Thursday as a county board of equalization. They heard a few complaints. The board was formally closed by vote of the court Monday.

Machinery Arrives For Aquaduct Construction

One quarter of a million dollars worth of contruction equipment to be used on the Canadian Reservoir aquaduct, was delivered on six flat bed railway cars of the Santa Fe Railroad in Canyon last Friday morning.

The equipment is to be unloaded off the flatcars and onto flatbed trucks which will haul the machinery to the water regulation site of the aquaduct east of Amarillo.

The machinery consists of two American Hoist Derrick Company cranes made in Saint Paul, Minnesota for the R. H. Fulton Company, contractors for the aquaduct from the Sandford Dam on the Canadian Reservoir to the water Regulating reservoir and then south as far as Canyon.

The Cranes cost some $125,000 apiece. One is equipped with a 30 foot back hoe to be used in digging the ditch for the aquaduct pipeline. The other crane has a 100 foot space frame boom and will be used to lay the pipe in the ditch after the back hoe.

Each unit of the concrete pipe is some 22 feet long with 5 1/4 inch thick walls. Each piece of pipe weighs 38,000 pounds.

The aquaduct is designed to carry water to the 11 member cities of the Texas Plains of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. The aquaduct, when completed in 1967, will carry a maximum of 103,000 acre feet of municipal water per year to the member cities. The conservation pool capacity of the Canadian Reservoir is 785,000 acre feet.

Member cities of the authority are Amarillo, Lubbock, Borger, Pampa, Plainview, Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Brownfield and Levelland. Canyon is not a member.

The aquaduct will draw water from the Canadian Reservoir at the dam site and through 4 pumping stations between the Reservoir and Amarillo will lift it through the concrete pipe to the 750 acre foot water regulating reservoir on the eastern city limits of Amarillo, where gravity flow will carry the water to the member cities.

The aquaduct will cut through Randall County along a line about 4 miles east of and parallel to Washington Street, east of Canyon.

The Fulton Company has contracted to complete the aquaduct and water regulating reservoir only as far south as a point just east of Canyon.

The Canadian River Authority expects to let bids in the early Fall for the completion of the aquaduct from east of Canyon to Lubbock. Spokesman for the authority say the entire aquaduct system must be completed before any of the member cities can use water from the system.

The Canadian Reservoir is scheduled to start backing water in early 1965.

Babe Ruth Candy Sale Saturday

The Canyon Babe Ruth League will hold a door to door candy sale Saturday starting at 9 a.m. from the Randall County Courthouse lawn.

The baseball players will sell sacks of peanut brittle candy throughout Canyon at $1 per sack. The Babe Ruth League gets 50¢ profit from each bag of the candy they sell.

All Babe Ruth League players are asked to meet on the court house lawn at 9 a.m. Saturday to get organized for the sale.

Canyon Boy Is Injured In Mishap

Ronnie Hawthorne, 17 years old, Canyon, suffered a fracture of the right leg about 6:30 o'clock last Saturday evening when he was struck by an auto.

The accident took place about 1 1/2 miles east of Canyon on the Palo Duro Park Road.

Hawthorne's car ran out of gasoline. Jim Winstead stopped to see if Hawthorne needed help. Investigating officers said Hawthorne walked across the road to talk to Winstead and was crossing back to his vehicle when he was struck by a car operated by William Yarbor-

WT To Play Colorado

West Texas State University has signed a contract to play Colorado State on a home and home basis beginning in 1965, according to Athletic Director Frank Kimbrough.

The Buffs will play the Colorado team Oct. 16, 1965 here and then meet them either at Fort Collins or Denver Nov. 12, 1966.

Chris Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Richardson of Canyon, gets his bandage changed on the hand which he had bitten by a rattle snake in Palo Duro Canyon Memorial day. Chris was throwing rocks in the canyon 20 miles south of Claude when he was bitten by the snake. The boy's parents took him to a hospital in Amarillo where doctors predicted little hope for his survival. He did survive, however, and today is out of the hospital and doing well. His mother said it is still in doubt whether there will be any permanent damage to the hand.

Red Carpet Treatment To Be Given Play Cast

Erin Wertenberger, who as a student, has been technical director and designer for the Branding Iron Theatre for the past three years, is giving his cast for this week's show at West Texas State University, the "red carpet" treatment.

For "Penny Wise," a comedy to be staged in intimate theatre style, Wertenberger has selected a bright red carpet as the keynote for his setting. He has also painted a large colorful mural around which to center action.

To be staged in the little BIT, where seating will be in a horseshoe, or around three sides, "Penny Wise" is a sophisticated comedy by Jean Ferguson Black. It will be directed by William A. and Margaret Echols Moore.

Since seating is limited, reservations are requested for the three nights the play will be presented. It will open Thursday at 8:15 p.m., and continue Friday and Saturday nights. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

Wertenberger, now a graduate in speech from Hereford, began his work as a designer and technical assistant under Robert L. Antrim, has performed most of the duties of the BIT's technical director since he was a sophomore. He earned his Bachelor of Science degree in May.

A member of Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics fraternity, and Phi Mu Alpha, national music fraternity, Wertenberger was one of 34 juniors and seniors selected to represent WT in 1963 in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Cast for the comedy includes some veterans of the BIT stage such as Jenny Lynn Massad, Spearman graduate, who plays Martee, an actress friend of Gorden and Penny Chase. Miss Massad played Miss Adelaide in WT's musical, "Guys and Dolls," and Ellie Mae in another musical, "Showboat." She also appeared in a dramatic role in "Night Must Fall," as Mrs. Bramson.

Jeanne Huston, Perryton sophomore, will play a rival of Martee's, appearing as Tina. Martin McDonald, a music major from Brownfield, will play Gorden, and his wife, Penny, is to be played by Lana Hard of Quanah, who appeared in "Cloud Seven," opening show of the summer BIT season.

Jeff, Gorden's younger brother, will be played by Harry Gilstrap of Amarillo, and the young play reader, who complicates the life of all the characters, will be played by Rose Ellen Parker of Canyon. Miss Parker, who has appeared in "Hamlet," Canyon High's contest play, as Ophelia, will be a member of the high school speech workshop which opens Sunday at WT.

Don McPherson of Amarillo, as Commissioner Dunn, rounds out the cast. Mrs. Margaret Foster, speech teacher at Canyon High School, will play entre act music.

Changes In City Routes Announced

Canyon Postmaster Marion Higdon, announced Tuesday, a change in city delivery routes effective this weekend.

Higdon said the change, involving a re-routing of city carrier mail routes, will be made in order to establish a more efficient postal operation.

The re-routing will cause a change in the time of delivery for most patrons who receive city delivery service with the mail arriving earlier in some cases and later in others.

In all cases, the time schedule will become fixed in a few days, and each patron will become accustomed to the new time of delivery, Higdon said.

Postal receipts for the 1963 fiscal year amount to $91,572.30 as compared to $80,757.68 for the 1963 fiscal year. This is an increase of $10,814.62 for the year.

Old Buildings Coming Down On WT Campus

Several old rock buildings, built on the West Texas University campus by WPA workers during depression, are being torn down by maintenance crews of the university, according to the university business manager, Virgil Henson.

The old buildings are being torn down to make room for new construction which will start sometime after the 1963-64 school year.

"We have gotten to the place where we can get the buildings out of the way and make room for major buildings. The new school of business administration building will probably touch a corner of where these buildings now are.

"The science and buisness research building will also go in on a corner of the lot," he said. "There are six major buildings that are planned for the area," he added.

The old rock buildings were used for a variety of purposes, according to Henson. These included a laboratory for the agriculture department, physical education dressing rooms, publications office and miscellaneous storage.

The demolition work is expected to be finished by the first week in July.

Henson said there will be no major construction on the campus this coming school year.

The Texas Legislature did appropriate some $60,000, to enlarge the heating capacity of the university boiler, Henson said.

Bids will be let at the October Board of Regents meeting for the expansion, he added.

I'd Teach Again Says WT's Dean Mitch Jones

BY JIM THOMAS

Dean W. Mitchell Jones probably is one of the best known men in the Texas Panhandle.

He admits his job is tough but will tell the world that it is rewarding. He is dean of men at West Texas State University.

Mitch is a kind man but he can spot a phoney as far away as from the museum to the WT administration building steps. He'll listen to anything one of his charges has to say but be careful of your story, he's heard most of them more than once already.

"Considering all the years spent as the dean of men--I have enjoyed the work.

"I love to teach and I look upon it as a special teaching job. I've had a good deal of success in my job due to the sympathy and cooperation of the faculty and administration," Jones said.

The visitor to Dean Jones' office, whether student or citizen, is impressed with his use of subtle cartoons to get his point across in his work with the students.

Since the job is primarily that of disciplinarian, Jones makes use of subtle cartoons to point out something to a student where words might fail or alienate.

"The basis of communication to a lot of people is a sense of humor. When people get to a place of authority and lose their sense of humor, then they should be removed from their position of authority," he said.

He places much importance on the understanding of the problems and motivations of students when they come before him as the dean of men.

Several books on his desk are based on the understanding of the college age student.

Jones says that 99 percent of the students who appear before him are there through acts of immaturity.

"We feel that 99 percent are kids who just haven't grown up, college-wise. One percent are deviates of other causes," he said.

"We have to teach 18 and 19 year old students things they should have learned when they were 8 and 9 years old," Dean Jones said.

Jones said he got his job in 1945 when Harris M. Cook, then the dean, became ill. Jones was assistant dean of men at the time. He got the assistant dean's position in 1935.

"The Dean of Men at West Texas has historically been principally a disciplinary office but now is evolving into a dean of student life with responsibilities for all areas of student activity," he said.

Dean Jones was born in the Indian Territory in 1901, the son of a carpenter and farmer. His birthplace was in Jackson County, Oklahoma, with Altus as the county seat. Jones was born on the family farm, 14 miles south of Altus.

"My dad went over there to file on a claim. My mother went to teach school in the Indian Territory.

"We left the farm in 1904 and moved to Altus where the family lived 9 years. We went to school at the ward school, which is what we called the public city school in those days. You would call it an elementary or grade school.

"We moved to Borden County on the Texas South Plains in 1913. That was near Treadway, Texas, where my father farmed and did carpentry work.

"We went to a rural school. Treadway was a Post Office and the rural school was a few miles from there. That was a rather remote community in those days. We got the mail three times a week for instance ----by going three miles to get it.

"I finished up at that rural school and took a state examination for a second grade teaching certificate. I taught a year at Scurry County Rural School before coming to Canyon.

"I attended West Texas State Normal College in 1919 and through summer classes, finished up my eleventh year which graduated me from high school. We had an 11-year-high school system then.

"I studied while I was teaching and skipped two years of high school. I got a first grade teaching certificate by state examination.

"Following graduation from high school, I taught school another year down in Swisher County and then returned to summer classes at West Texas.

"In the Fall of 1921, I taught school at Perryton Independent School District. By that time I had finished my freshman year in college by studying in the summers.

"My mother and dad brought the other kids back to Canyon in 1920 to attend school. I returned to Canyon in the fall of 1921 to finish college. I got my degree in the spring of 1925.

"We used to brag about the class of 1925. That was the first big graduation class at West Texas. We had 50 graduates.

"Some of the graduates were Dr. Ruth Lowes, now head of the education department; Herschel Coffee, head of the economics department; state senator Grady Hazelwood and J. Evetts Haley, the historian. Another graduate from the class of 1925 was Odus Mitchell who is now the head football coach of North Texas College.

"After graduation from West Texas I went to Canyon High School as athletic director and mathematics teacher. The following year I returned to West Texas as the assistant basketball and football coach. Coaches taught full time in those days. I taught mathematics in the college demonstration school as well as teaching the physical education courses," Jones said.

When asked about the events leading up to his appointment as the assistant dean of men, Jones said, "The job of dean of men was then almost wholly one of discipline. I had somehow developed a reputation for being something of a disciplinarian.

"I worked with the kids and got along with them pretty well. I had a friend on the board of regents, Jimmy Guleke, who wanted me to go on with my education. He encouraged me to go to the University of Oregon where I got my masters degree in physical education.

"I then returned to West Texas where I taught in the education department. That was in the fall of 1930. I taught for five years before they made me the assistant dean of men," he said.

Dean Jones said he is a member of the Texas Association of Personnel Administrators of which he is past president. He said he is also a member of the Southwestern Association of Personnel Administrators and a member of Phi Delta Kappa, a professional education fraternity.

He said he loves to hike and loves the mountains. "If I were a young man, I would teach again. This completes my 39th year of teaching. I began when I was 17 years old," Dean Jones said.

W. Mitchell Jones, dean of men at West Texas University and graduate of the West Texas Class of 1925, is completing his 39th year of teaching, most of which has centered around the West Texas campus.

NITROMITE
82.2% NITROGEN
SIDE-DRESS
WITH THE FULL MIGHT OF NITROGEN

It's now or never for this year's cotton and grain crops. The nitrogen needed for an abundant, high quality harvest should be applied before the 12th week of growth or before the plant begins to boot or bloom. Anhydrous ammonia supplies this nitrogen in the largest quantity by volume and in the most usable form. We recommend and sell Shamrock Nitromite because we know it to be a fine brand of anhydrous ammonia, 82.2% nitrogen.

Hilltop Views

It is no reflection on the Negro to say that he is not prepared for complete, capable citizenship in this republic. It is doubtful if any race, under the same conditions which the American Negro has had to endure, would be any better prepared for such a responsibility. And it is an obvious fact that our black descendants of slavery in the South are far better circumstanced today than their racial brothers in Africa.

For the greater part of our Negroes' improvement the people of the South are due most of the praise. It is the South that has best understood the Negro and best treated him, much opinion to the contrary not withstanding.

But let us not be too much disposed to put all blame on others. The fact is, North, South, East and West have been guilty of negligence and inexcusable mistreatment of the Negro in too many cases positive cruelty. This fact has left deep and ugly marks upon Negro personality and explains much of his conduct in the present crisis.

Though perhaps exaggerated, the following quotation from Martin Luther King, Jr., which appeared recently in the Dallas News, reflects quite forcefully the enlightened Negro's viewpoint and emotional reaction.

"I guess it is easy for those who have never felt the stinging darts of segregation to say 'wait'.

"But when you have seen vicious mobs lynch your mother and father at will and drown your sisters and brothers at whim, when you have seen hate-filled policemen curse, kick, brutalize and even kill your black brothers and sisters with impunity; when you see the vast majority of your 20,000,000 Negro brothers smothering in an air-tight cage of poverty in the midst of our affluent society; when you suddenly find your tongue twisted and your speech stammering as you seek to explain to your six-year old daughter why she can't go to the public amusement park that has just been advertised on television, and see tears welling up in her little eyes when she is told that Funtown is closed to colored children and see the depressing clouds of inferiority begin to form in her little mental sky, and see her begin to distort her little personality by unconsciously developing a bitterness toward white people; when you take a cross-country drive and find it necessary to sleep night after night in the uncomfortable corners of your automobile because no motel will accept you; when your first name becomes 'nigger' and your middle name becomes 'boy' (however old you are) and your last name becomes 'John' and when your wife and mother are never given the respected title 'Mrs.'; when you are harried by day and haunted by night by the fact that you are a Negro----then you will understand why we find it difficult to 'wait.'

"There comes a time when the cup of endurance runs over, and men are no longer willing to be plunged into an abyss of injustice where they experience the bleakness of corroding despair. I hope, Sirs, you can understand our legitimate impatience."

We do understand, Mr. King; and we realize that you and millions of other Negroes have been victimized by cruel circumstances and have had to endure and still endure unconscionable injustice and undeserved punishment. For whatever responsibility we carry for these shameful facts the best people in our beloved America are deeply penitent, and we pledge, under God, our best effort to help you and your people to hasten the process by which you shall earn a position of complete participation in the affairs of our common country. I commend to you and yours the precepts and example of that truly great and constructive educator-statesman, Booker T. Washington, on whose monument at Tuskegee, are inscribed these imperishable words; "I will allow no man to drag me so low as to make me hate him."

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Folks around the world are again busy baiting the United States for its race problem. The bleeding hearts among us are busy bowing and scraping and apologizing.

There seems to be some misbegotten idea that the US has a corner on racial prejudice.

We have some first hand information from a few countries---among them the worst US baiters--on their race problems having visited them as a US serviceman during the World War II.

We were in Tripoli for the race riots of 1945 when Jews were hanged from lamp posts along the streets. The dirty work was done by the Arabs whose Nasser in Egypt now points a shaming finger at our "deplorable" race situation.

We were driving a weapons carrier in Saudi Arabia in 1944 when we stopped to pick up a pedestrian on a hot desert road. Our Arab escort told us to drive on because we were about to give a ride to a "damned Persian."

In Ankara, Turkey, we saw the Syrians mistreated. The British Tommy looked on any dark skinned person as an inferior being.

That pusillanious old hypocrite Nehru of India is forever taking verbal pokes at this country for its treatment of the Negro. In no place on earth is racial discrimination so widespread or so utterly vicious as in India.

The caste system still prevails in India today. There are millions of untouchables in India whose very shadow is thought by members of higher castes to be contaminated.

Discrimination is practiced by Negro against Negro in Africa in a manner at times more vicious than most people in this country would think possible.

In many places in Canada the American Indian is an outcast and is not permitted the use of hotels and other public facilities.

The hope for the Negro race to live as an "equal" in every respect in a predominately white society is not in the ascendancy. It is on the wane.

Witness the countries where the black race is in power--namely Haiti in this hemisphere and Kenya and Rhodesia in South Africa.

To keep the upper hand, the black man has been forced to ruthlessly subdue the white elements because the black man is not equipped to compete on the equal basis so tearfully sought for him.

In Kenya, for instance, white settlers by thousands are fleeing the country. Rich farm land to which they have devoted their lives is almost worthless.

With the blessing of Haiti's President Francois Duvalier the mulatto aristocrats of that country have been imprisoned or killed. The result is that the country's once rich coffee plantations have grown up in jungle. The small nation's trade is almost nil. There is anarchy in this hemisphere's only Negro nation---a nation that has had independence for more than a century.

We feel no ill will toward any man because of the color of his skin.

However, we can face facts and the fact is that the Negro inherently is ill equipped to make his way in the white man's commercial world.

Let's look at Haiti again. In this nation blessed by a wonderful climate and fertile soil the country is bankrupt. Why? If we can find the answer to this question we will have gone a long way toward solving our racial problem in this country.

Lack of opportunity is not a valid excuse.

Probably no race in history has had less opportunity than the Jewish race. Cast like feathers from a torn pillow across the face of the earth for more than a thousand years, persecuted and slaughtered though they were, they gathered in Israel shortly after World War II and in two decades have made their country the most formidable economic and military force in the strategic Middle East.

***

We have a racial problem in the U.S. All intelligent people recognize it. But it will not be solved by ruthless politician Bobby Kennedy, who sees in the Negro race a black reservoir of sure votes.

If there is a solution it must be found through diligent effort by men of good will of both the black and white races.

It is a pity that all men's aptitudes, intelligence and background do not make them truly equal. The wailing of all the do-gooders in the world will not make this so.

If a solution is to be found, realistic goals must be sought.

Until realistic goals are sought, few goals will be reached. What are realistic goals? Even the finding of this answer poses a herculean task.

Museum director Boone McClure and a museum visitor admire the museum's most recent addition of Commanche Indian materials. The items, which include a war bonnet, shield and arrow quiver, were owned and used by White Eagle Eschiti, the Quahadi Commanche medicine man in the second Battle of Adobe Walls near the Canadian River in 1874.

Indian Artifacts From Adobe Walls At Museum

The Panhandle Plains Museum this week received several items of Commanche ceremonial war materials that were used in the Second Battle of Adobe Walls near the Canadian River in 1874.

The ceremonial gear was owned and used by White Eagle Eschiti, the medicine man who helped lead a band of 1200 Quahadi Commanche Indians in an unsuccessful attack against some 28 buffalo hunters who were entrenched in sod houses near the site of Adobe Walls.

The Indian materials were obtained for the museum through the efforts of a New Mexico rancher.

Boone McClure, director of the Cowboy Museum, says the items help complete the Commanche and Kiowa artifact collection now on display and in storage at the museum, which is now the central depository for the world's most complete Kiowa artifacts. McClure said the recently donated materials are among the oldest in the museum's collection.

Foremost among the artifacts is a buffalo war bonnet, bow and arrow quiver with 9 arrows, a hide shield and a six foot lance. Each of these articles was carried into battle by White Eagle at the Second Battle of Adobe Walls.

The battle was participated in by more than 1200 allied Commanche, Kiowa and Cheyenne Indians fighting to remove the buffalo hunters from the Plains. The Indians, in a dawn raid, had ambushed 28 buffalo hunters who were camped some 3 miles from the site of Adobe Walls which was a fledgling trading post and settlement of the Bent brothers. The hunters defended themselves in sod dugouts which they had only recently finished at the time of the battle.

The cowhide bow and arrow quiver with its 9 arrows, is unusual among Commanche work for its interesting bead work, especially around the mouth of the quiver. It is significant because it belonged to and was used by White Eagle in the battle with the buffalo hunters.

Also impressive among the artifacts is a flanneled and feathered buffalo horned medicine bonnet which belonged to White Eagle. It too, was supposed to have been worn in the Battle of Adobe Walls. The bonnet is decorated with the horns of a young buffalo and is nearly covered with golden eagle and crow feathers. The bonnet was the medicine man's badge of office. The brow-band of the bonnet is beaded and has a red flannel backdrop.

The Indians made the flannel from the trade blankets of the day.

One of the more colorful items of the collection is a six foot lance, also a sign of the medicine man's authority and power. The lance is covered with red flannel and tipped with a long steel blade which supported the symbol when the blade was stuck into the ground outside the medicine man's tee pee.

The full length of the lance is decorated with the tail and wing feathers of eagles and hawks.

Another item of interest in the collection is the tough hide shield that White Eagle carried into battle. The shield is flannel trimmed with a yellow front. The reverse side is decorated in green with the figure of a buffalo. The shield is also decorated with eagle feathers, a favorite Commanche symbol of strength.

Two additional items included in the collection are a drum stick with symbolic carving and a foot long cane whistle with a separate reed which is bound in place with strands of sinew.

McClure said all the articles are more than 100 years old and some are thought to be considerably older.

New Faculty Members Are Appointed At W.T.

An acting head of the women's physical education department and an instructor in agriculture have been appointed for the 1963-64 session at West Texas State University.

Miss Donna R. Marburger, who was an instructor at WT for five years before resigning to work on her doctorate, has been named acting head of the women's physical education department. Mrs. Ruth Cross, who has long been head of the department, will devote full time to her duties as dean of women.

The new instructor in agriculture is Kenneth Wilson, a West Texas State graduate who has been working on his doctorate at Texas A&M College.

Miss Marburger will be assistant professor of physical education. She was an instructor at WT from 1955 until 1960, when she resigned to work toward the doctorate at Colorado State College. She has completed all course work for the Ph.D. She holds the B. S. degree from the University of Wyoming and the M.S. from the University of Colorado.

Wilson, whose home is McLean, received his B.S. degree in agriculture at WT in 1959. He received the M.S. in dairy science in 1962 at Texas A&M, where he is currently working toward the Ph.D. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have two sons, Eddie, 6, and Mark, 3.

Professor Visitor Of Museum

Dr. Joseph Gregory, professor of paleontology and curator of lower vertebrates in the University of California Museum, was in Canyon this week with Sylvester Adegoke, a graduate paleontology student from the University of Ibadan, Nigeria, Africa.

The two paleontologists spent several days in Palo Duro Canyon comparing the fossils from the Triassic formations in the canyon with similar fossils found in other parts of Texas.

"I stopped here at Canyon, specifically to see some of the fossil vertebrates in the Panhandle Plains Museum and incidentally to see Jack Hughes, the curator of paleontology at the museum," Gregory said.

Interested mostly in the amphibians that lived during the Triassic times, Gregory spoke in high regard of the Panhandle Plains Museum.

"The museum's collection here is the largest collection of fossils from any one locality in North America and probably in the world. Other museums have larger collections on many different areas, but not as complete a collection that represents one specific area.

"It is a big specialized collection. It is perhaps the best collection of Triassic and late Tertiary vertebrates in North America. The museum's collection is of inestimable value in the study of vertebrate paleontology," Gregory said.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Cooper, Mrs. Joe B. Cox, Mrs. Malcolm Cashwell and daughters, Karen and Vicki, of Canyon and Linda Laroche of Amarillo were fishing and camping at Las Vegas, and Tres Ritas, New Mexico.

They report the weather was good and the nights were cold in the mountain region.

Visiting in Friona with relatives last week were Mrs. J. D. Burkett and daughters, Wilma and Mrs. Johnny Raymond.

Guests in the J. D. Burkett home over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Val Howard and son, David, of Friona and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lindsey and daughter, Sheree, of Borger.

HUNTING, FISHING AND CONSERVATION

Prairie Wildlife

Well now! That hot summer time fishing weather is upon us. Seems that everyone we call or try to see has just left to go fishing. Texas, Colorado or Old Mexico---it doesn't seem to matter, just so its fishing---and we agree.

Troy and Jim Martin tried their luck at Buffalo Lake last week and caught several large crappie. No weights, but one was the largest crappie we have seen come from Buffalo.

Paige Carruth and L. J. Witkowski flew down to Canton Lake over Oklahoma way last Friday, flying over in the morning and returning that night.

They really cleaned up on the white bass which were biting well. Wit said they each kept only 13 of the bass which when placed on a stringer, were much too heavy to hold up for any length of time---Hurry and take the picture! (See picture.)

Bob Brown recently got back from an extended fishing trip through South Central and Southern Colorado and he did pretty well, judging by the fish he came home with.

Bob said he fished in the La Jara Reservoir in the valley where he caught brooks and rainbows and then went up to Conejas in southern Colorado just above the New Mexico state border where he caught brooks, rainbows and browns. Bob went with several other fishermen, which is adviseable when working that rough country.

Although we haven't seen the actual fish, folks tell us that channel cat are biting pretty good at Buffalo. Crappie are still at it, though not as hard as they were several weeks ago.

In case anyone hasn't taken the time to go look, the water front at Buffalo Lake is beautiful with the rise in lake level. The water has covered up all the old rough beaches and the coves are filled with water. A fisherman can tie his boat up in the shade of a cottonwood tree and really get with the fishing---in comfort. He might even catch some fish.

Favored bait seems to be minnows, although worms are doing pretty well, even with black bass. For those who have grown disgusted with their lack of success using all the complicated and fancy fishing gear folks use these days, we recommend the use of a long cane pole, a cork and about 30 feet of line and a can full of good ole' worms. You might surprise yourself at the fun you can get from fishing with such a rig. Cheap, too! Let's go fishing. You bet.

Paige Carruth holds up a stringer of whites he caught last week on a one-day flying fishing trip to Canton Lake in Oklahoma with L. J. Witkowski. Wit caught a similar string. The pair threw back all but the two stringers.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

The Agricultural Industry today involves more than just farming and ranching. It is bigger than wheat farming in the Panhandle or cotton production on the south plains. Dairying is important and so is beef cattle production. The agricultural industry is the sum total of all operations involved in the manufacture and distribution of farm supplies, production operations on the farms and ranches, and the storage, processing and distribution of farm commodities and items made from them.

Actually, about 40 percent of all the people in Texas are either engaged in farming and ranching, in supplying production needs to farmers or in processing and distributing agricultural products.

If you don't believe that agriculture is important, just go into some of those areas of our state and nation and see what has happened to the business in town where agriculture has died on the vine.

The future of our agricultural industry both on the farm and in those businesses closely allied with agriculture will belong to those people and states that strive to keep their agricultural economy competitive with other areas of the United States and the world.

Let's Don't take agriculture for granted. It means much to the total economy of Randall County and to Texas.

***

What do insect pests cost the Livestock Producer? Horn flies cost 50 lbs of beef per animal during the summer months. Cattle grubs cost up to $2.00 in dockage plus loss of weight gain during heel fly season. A spray of Co-Ral or Korlan costs from 10 to 40 cents per animal and will last 3 weeks or longer. These insecticides will help control screwworms, horn flies, ticks, lice, reduce stable and house fly populations, reduce fly and gnat populations which transmit and agitate pink-eye.

If you are looking for a money maker, here is a natural.

***

By the end of this week the pressure should go down a little---if it doesn't rain. Wheat harvest will be winding up and the feed crops will have been planted. The grain sorghum crop will have a spread of planting dates from early May to July. The wheat crop wasn't anything to brag about but at least we had one. In the large wheat areas of the northern plains the crop was a near miss. Planting seed will be scarce.

***

If you need an up-to-date guide for controlling insects on gardens, livestock, poultry, or ornamental plants come by the Extension Office in the Courthouse. We have them.

Burrus Is Promoted

Around The Town (With Kids)

Gene Morrison and his family went to Monument Lake, Colorado, with his aunt and uncle. They left Friday morning and got in Sunday night.

They fished and a whole bunch of other things. When they were fishing off the dam they saw a whole bunch of buffalo behind them. One night Mrs. Morrison put out a pan of water. Three animals drank out of it. A skunk, a fox, and a buffalo.

The next day they fished a lot and Gene started to cast for the first time and caught three rainbow trout. One time he was casting and as he was drawing back to cast he caught his cousin Janie in the ear. He's okay though. They had a whole lot of fun.

Dr. Bill Cooper Making Vitamin Study In WT Lab

BY JIM THOMAS

It is a well known fact that vitamin deficiencies in our diet can cause many types of disorders and growth abnormalities, especially in new born children.

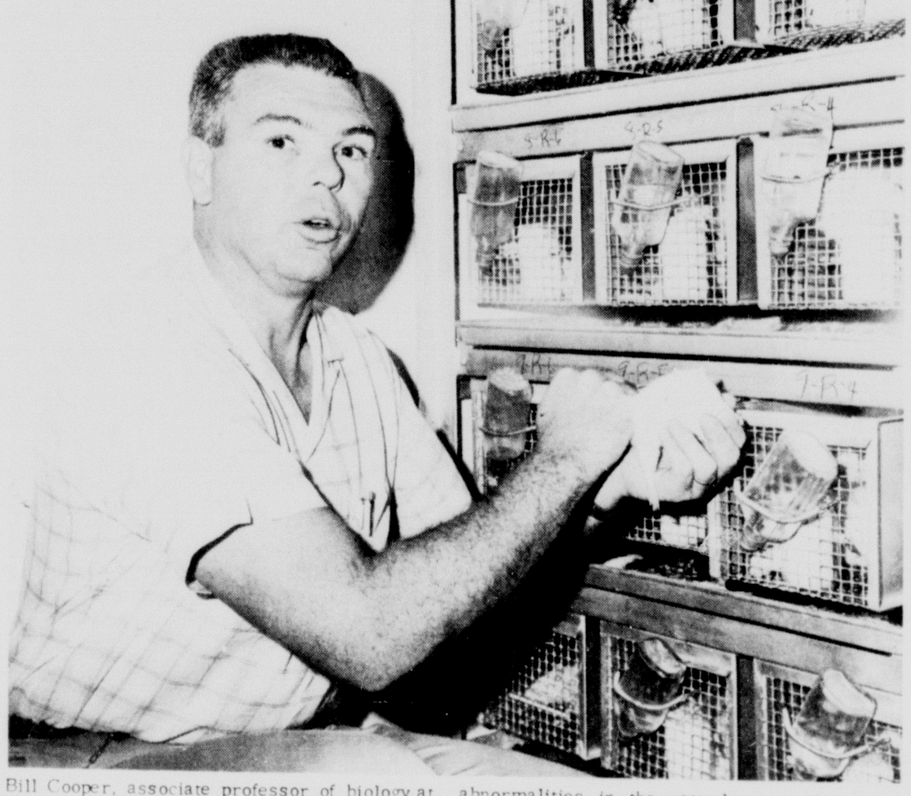
What is not so well known, however, is specifically which disorders and growth abnormalities are caused by a deficiency of which vitamins.

Dr. Bill Cooper, of the West Texas University department of biology, is well on his way towards finding the answers to the vitamin deficiency problems.

Cooper has been conducting a continuous program of research on the effects of a vitamin deficient diet on white rats. By feeding and breeding female white rats a diet that is deficient in certain vitamins and then studying the organs of the newly born young, Dr. Cooper is able to gather data that may shed some light on the effects of poor human diet.

As soon as Cooper has learned the effects of a diet deficient in one particular vitamin, he continues the program, changing the rat's diet by adding the vitamin previously under study and subtracting a new one.

Much of Dr. Cooper's work applies to general vitamin deficiency, but most of it is aimed at one particular phase, namely the congenital heart abnormalities caused in white rats with vitamin deficient diets.



Bill Cooper, associate professor of biology at West Texas University, holds one of the white rats he is using in his research on heart abnormalities in the rats due to vitamin deficiencies in their diet.

Through his research, Cooper has found that some 40 per cent of the young rats born to diet deficient females, have some congenital heart abnormalities, most with thin heart walls. It is also significant that few, if any of the abnormal young live beyond 4 days after birth.

Cooper has tried, without success, to keep groups of these abnormal young alive that their abnormalities might be studied as they grow and become adults.

Through future work, Cooper hopes to breed a strain of rats with abnormal hearts. The problem is to keep the abnormal ones alive long enough to breed and study.

The new born rats with heart defects are studied through an elaborate method of microscope techniques. New born rats are killed and disected. The heart is separated from the other organs and is surrounded with hot paraffin which, when cooled, preserves and keeps the rat heart intact.

Each heart, with its waxy shell, is placed in a special slicing machine that literally shaves a thinner-than-tissue slice of the heart which is then mounted on a glass microscope slide.

The very thin slice or cross section of the heart is only a few cells thick and is actually transparent. When placed under the magnification of a microscope, each layer of the heart can be studied in great detail. By comparing the defective hearts of many such new born rats, Cooper can obtain information as to the effect a vitamin deficient diet has on growth.

Cooper's work is financed through the auspices of the National Heart Institute, a division of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"I came to West Texas in 1957 strictly on a teaching basis. I applied for a grant from the Heart Institute after I got here. In 1958 I got $8400 for each year of a two year project. In 1960, the grant was extended and increased to $9822 for each year on another three years of work. The grant has been approved through August of 1964 when I will reapply for another extension.

"This type of research work deals with one problem at a time. When that is solved, we move on to the next one. We are studying the abnormal heart growth defects for diets deficient in one vitamin at a time, hoping to finish with a series of studies on the important vitamins in nutrition," Cooper said.

"I started my research project in 1955 at Texas A&M College while working on my doctorate in zoology. I worked as a research assistant at Texas A&M on a research grant from the National Institute of Health. The work that I have done here is a continuation of that at A&M. Also, at A&M, I was working on many different aspects of the problem. Here I am limiting my work to the study of abnormalities.

Cooper's research work at WTU is set up on a personal time basis during the 9 month school year and on a full time basis during the 3 month summer. During the school year, he supervises the work of three research assistants and in the summer, he coordinates and reports on what work was accomplished during the winter. His assistants are Audie Davidson, Gene Shelhamer and Peter Roberts. Cooper's wife, Charlene, works for him as a secretary, preparing manuscripts, writing requisitions and cutting stencils.

In addition to his research, Dr. Cooper teaches a full load of classes, including freshman biology, comparative anatomy, histology and advanced physiology.

Cooper has also published three works on his vitamin research. Printed in the Texas Journal of Science, the works are Congenital Heart Abnormalities in Biotin-Deficient and in Pantothenic Acid-Deficient White Rats, Tissue Abnormalities in Newborn Rats from Biotin-Deficient Mothers and Reproduction in the Biotin-Deficient White Rat. Researchers from the Children's Hospital Research Foundation of Cincinnati, Ohio, have requested copies of Cooper's research reports. The foundation concerns its research with heart abnormalities of children.

Cooper was born in Archer City, Texas, in 1927. He went to grade school at Nocona and at Denton and then attended high school at the North Texas College demonstration school. Cooper later attended North Texas to get his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees. He finished his masters degree at North Texas in 1950 majoring in general biology with a leaning towards fisheries and wildlife management.

Following his graduation with a masters degree, Cooper was called into active duty with the Navy. He had been a member of the Naval Reserves. He served sea duty with the Marine Corps off Korea during that conflict.

Returning to Texas in May of 1952, Cooper went to work for Continental Oil Company as a seismograph operator in Oklahoma. "In the midst of all that, I got married," Cooper said. The Coopers now have 4 children, Viki, Ken, Andy and Judy.

"In the fall of 1953, I went to Paris Texas Junior College as a biology teacher and then in the summer of 1954 I taught at North Texas.

"This was followed by attending Texas A&M in the fall of 1954, working towards my doctorate," Cooper said. He received his doctorate from A&M in the spring of 1957. He came to West Texas soon after.
